JURY WAIVED.

The following cases on the April calendar of the Supreme Court have been jury waived and will probably be heard in vacation: Robt. More vs. Hawaiian Government. Assumpsit. Skinner & Co. vs. C. T. Gulick, Tax Collector. Assumpsit. Hawaiian Government vs. W. H. Cornwell. Ejectment.

THE CRIM. CON. CASE.

The case of B. H. Kahanani vs. V. V. Ashford, criminal conversation, is still on trial in the Supreme Court before a mixed jury. It commenced Monday, April 15th, and since then thirty-seven witnesses have been examined. The defendant was on the stand this morning. Quite a large number attend Court every day to hear the case which is the longest on record. Much of the evidence is entirely unfit for publication.

GETTING INTO DEBT.

The fashion of getting into debt seems not to be so popular in some parts of Europe as in others. In any event, the subjects of King Milan do not look as complacently upon his record in this respect as do the subjects of certain other monarchs, real or prospective. The newspapers have been investigating Milan's financial affairs and have found he owes the Bank of Vienna 260,000 francs, the president of the bank 80,000, the Pesth Bank 300,000 and has other debts which aggregate 910,000 francs, or about $182,000. Considering his opportunities, one may be pardoned for wondering that the royal debtor does not make a far worse showing than this.—[Ex.]

WILL PROBABLY RECOVER.

The Chinaman mentioned in yesterday's issue as having been shot by some person unknown at Kaula, will probably recover. Capt. Larsen and Dr. Wood returned from that place yesterday afternoon. The man, it appears, heard a noise outside of the plantation house, and upon going out saw a Chinaman running away. He went after the prowler when the latter turned on his pursuer and fired two shots at him with a revolver. One shot took effect, entering the right breast, passing through the lungs, and lodging in muscles near the shoulder blade. The wounded man was brought to town last evening in a chair, and is now in the care of friends. The perpetrator of the deed has not yet been discovered.

AUCTION SALES TO-MORROW.

BY J. F. MORGAN.

At 10 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. W. W. Campbell, 73 Beretania street, the entire household furniture. Particular attention is called to the very handsome wicker parlor set, and also a number of fine oil paintings and pictures. The furniture is open to inspection until 9 o'clock this evening.

INSANE ASYLUM.

The report of the superintendent of the Insane Asylum for the quarter ending March 31st, shows that the whole number of patients on the register on that date was 67; number of patients admitted during the quarter 6, number discharged 3. The only death was that of an aged man who was in the last stage of general paralysis when admitted. He lived about five weeks after being received at the Asylum.

FINE BEEF.

Last evening at the Metropolitan Meat Market, the four quarters of a very fine animal was suspended on the hooks. The animal, quartered, weighed a trifle over 1200 pounds. The beef was very fat and in every way splendid looking. This animal came from Hon. Sam Parker's ranch, on the island of Hawaii, and is one of a shipment of 27. They are not all large as this one, but will average about 800 pounds per head. Mr. Parker has a large supply of similar animals on his ranch.

In Brazil there is a tribe called "Cafusos," which has sprung into existence by marriage between the long, stiff-haired natives and the imported negro slaves.

TRANS-PACIFIC.

HOW THE COLONISTS FEEL TOWARD AMERICA.

Mr. G. W. Griffin, American Consul at Sydney, was interviewed in San Francisco by a representative of the "Post" of that city, when he said:—

"One of the most important matters at present being considered by the colonial government are the attempts continually being made by Canada to increase its commercial interests with the Colonies. Canada is trying hard to come in and secure the mail service, and, in fact, all the American trade. I hope this will be averted, though it will be a difficult matter for the United States steamers to compete with those of Canada and Great Britain, which are so heavily subsidized. The people of the Colonies, strange as it may seem, do not in any way favor increased relationship with Canada as much as they do with the United States. American products suit them best, and are eagerly looked for, and the colonists like the American people.

"The Governor-General of Canada recently addressed a communication to the colonial governments inviting them to send delegates to Canada for the purpose of conferring upon the best means of establishing more intimate trade relations and a closer telegraphic communication between Canada and the Colonies. As I stated before, the colonial governments look with more favor upon America, and as a consequence the proposal of Canada did not meet with much approval by the government of New South Wales.

"The premiers of all the Colonies are unanimous in their opinion that no advantages were to be gained by the colonial governments through such a union, and answered the communication of the Governor-General of Canada by suggesting that if the Canadian Government desired to confer upon the subject, it would be better to send its delegates to Melbourne or some other important point in the Colonies.

"Canada realizes that the present close commercial relations between the Australasian Colonies and the United States will in time prove disastrous to its commercial interests and is seeking every means to discourage the relations between the two countries. It is principally for this reason that Canada would like to secure the contract for the mail service between the United States and Australia, by establishing a direct service between England, Canada, and the Colonies, and connecting the three great commercial points by a submarine cable via Vancouver Island, and freeze the United States government out of its present favorable connections with the Colonies. Canada will, however, find this a very hard matter to accomplish.

"Sir Henry Atkinson, Premier of New Zealand, who is very pronounced in his sentiments in favor of the United States, at a recent meeting of colonial representatives, expressed his opinion that the Colonists could not trade any better with Canada on account of its being also a part of the British Empire.

"We have to interest in Canada," said he, "beyond a very remote one, in the questions between it and its great neighbor, which at times assume an excitable shape. The destiny of absorption in the great nation of the United States many of us regard as the best thing that could happen to it. In any case we feel no interest besides the languid one of curiosity in the matter. We shall certainly enter into no arrangement intended to prevent such a result. Our feelings toward our kinsmen of the United States are quite as cordial as those toward our kinsmen in Canada. It would be but a piece of loyal hypocrisy to pretend otherwise."

"On another occasion," continued Consul Griffin, referring to a memorandum, "at a convention of colonial representatives the question of the existing mail service between the United States and the Colonies was in some way brought before the convention, and discussed in a manner that plainly showed that the feeling of the Colonists was stronger for America than for Canada. One of the most prominent statesmen was quoted as saying, 'But a mail service with America must be well worth maintaining. Sixty millions of English speaking people are living there, and these numbers are increasing with extraordinary rapidity. They are, as it so happens, our nearest neighbors of what we, who are so very new, may call the old world, and the possibilities of a large mutual commerce must exist.'

A BRAVE WOMAN.

Miss Flavin, a young lady from Liverpool, is on her way to Father Damien's leper colony. Brave, earnest woman, she knows that she is about to doom herself to a repulsive life among pariahs whose only business is to await a loathsome death; but she feels that it is her mission to leave her brother and two sisters in England, and devote herself to helping the Father. "I am," she said to a friend recently, "not seeking notoriety or reward, only the spiritual comfort of doing for those dying creatures what their terrible disease keeps other people from doing."—London Paper.

"Papa, is Queen Victoria in the soup too?" "Not exactly. She's in the Irish stew."—Puck.

WHAT THEY TAKE TO DRINK.

No member of President Harrison's Cabinet is a total abstainer, though Wannamaker publicly frowns upon intoxicants. Mr. Harrison likes a swallow of Irish whiskey now and then. Blaine is a connoisseur of French wines. Windom enjoys a dinner at which each course has its appropriate stimulant. Tracy is fond of a pint of champagne at lunch. Noble likes malt drinks and indulges every day in a bottle of imported ale. Miller seldom takes anything but rye and seltzer, while Rusk swallows his corn juice plain. Elijah Halford has never tasted whiskey, but has sipped champagne on convivial occasions.—[Chicago Journal.

IN THE SUPREME COURT of the Hawaiian Islands. In the matter of the Bankruptcy of Wm. R. Buchanan, by whom a Petition for adjudication was filed on the 22nd day of April, 1889, in said Court, in Bankruptcy, before Chief Justice Judd. The 22nd day of April, 1889.

Upon reading the said Petition, and upon proof before me, I do find that the said Wm. R. BUCHANAN has become a Bankrupt within the true intent and meaning of the Act approved on the 29th day of August, 1884, entitled "An Act to regulate proceedings in Bankruptcy in the Hawaiian Islands." And I do hereby declare and adjudge him Bankrupt accordingly.

And I do further order that the Creditors of the said Bankrupt come in and prove their debts before said Justice of the Supreme Court, at the sitting in Chambers at Aliolani Hale, Honolulu, on the 27th day of April, 1889, between the hours of 10 o'clock in the forenoon and noon of the said day, and elect one or more Assignees or Assignees of the said Bankrupt's estate.

And that notice thereof be published in the DAILY BULLETIN newspaper published in Honolulu, in the English language.

And that the said Bankrupt shall immediately file with the Clerk of this Honorable Court a schedule of his Creditors and Assets, as required by the said Act.

A. F. JUDD,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.
